Hiccup groaned in annoyance, glaring at the group in front of him. The twins, as usual, were fighting each other. Snotlout was flirting with Astrid who was twirling her axe in her fingers trying not to attack him. Fishlegs stood awkwardly between the two groups not sure what to do. Hiccup rubbed his head, frustrated.

"Guys" he tried only to be ignored

"Stop it guys!" He shouted again but still all but Fishlegs didn't hear him. This was beginning to frustrate him to no end. Grinning, he had an idea. Taking a deep breath he shouted

"silence!"

All the teens turned to look at him with looks of shock on their faces. "Hiccup what?"

"vous ne seriez pas tranquille."

Hiccup grinned in response Astrid scowled "Hiccup why are you talking another language?"

"c'est amusant"

By this point the twins were looking confusedly at Hiccup and then to each other, trying to figure out what was going on, Fishlegs was looking rather helpless, Snotlout was looking irritated and Astrid was looking a bit murderous. Hiccup was finding it extremely amusing.

"Hiccup" Astrid growled

"quoi?"

"What are you doing Hiccup?" Fishlegs questioned. At that point Gobber walked in. "How are you guys doing?" He greeted walking up to them but stopped as he saw the looks on the groups faces. Glancing at the irritated and confused looking group to a pleased looking Hiccup, Gobber sighed.

"He's started talking in another language hasn't he."

"Yeah he has" Astrid grumbled, glaring at Hiccup

"How did you know?" Fishlegs asked

"Can you get him to stop? It's irritating." Snotlout said.

Gobber sighed "that's the point." He said "if you annoy him, he'll start talking in another language to annoy you. He's started doing it ever since he began traveling. It angers Stoick to no end." With a triumphant grin, Hiccup stretched "bien! Je dois y aller maintenant"

"What?" Hiccup began walking off "Je vais voler"

"Hiccup!"

"Where are you going?!"

"Hiccup."

"au revoir!"

"Hiccup!"

As Hiccup left, the group could only stare after him. Gobber, seeing Astrid murderous glare, grinned and spoke "Don't worry, he'll be back to speaking normally soon."

"ne comptez pas sur elle!" Was called back.

Astrid growled and chased after him. "Hiccup what did you say! Hiccup! Get back here!"

"jamais!"

"You know if I was chief..."

"Ugh"

"Hey, what're you using that tone for?"

"Snotlout I-"

"You think you're so clever and important now that you're so tall!"

"No, Snotlout, now lea-"

"No? Well I think you're lying

~~mr-I-think-I'm-better-than-everyone-else-because-I-trained-dragons-and-are-now-no-longer-a-runt.~~"

"Oh for the love of Thor, Snotlout, would you just leave me alone!"

Astrid glanced up from where she was feeding Stormfly and watched the two arguing cousins. A slight scowl crossed on her face.

"Idiot." She grumbled before going back to her work. Footsteps alerted her to the approaching presence. Stopping her work and looking up she spotted Fishlegs. He was waking towards her but his gaze kept flickering over to the pair.

"He's never going to learn is he?"

It wasn't really a question, but she answered anyway

"Nope."

They stood staring for a while.

"He's an idiot, isn't he."

"We established that a long time ago. We just didn't realise how much of one he was."

They stood in silence again, watching the arguing duo walking through the village.

"Hey guys, what're you staring at?"

Ruffnut and Tuffnut approached them. Astrid grinned "we're watching Snotlout annoy Hiccup."

"What? Why would you- oh" Tuffnut broke off into a laugh, eyes darting over to Snotlout.

"Even we know not to do that!" Ruffnut added.

There was a pause as the group stared at Hiccup and Snotlout, before:

"Should we follow them?"

Tuffnut grinned "definitely."

They set off after the cousins, determined not to miss any of the following chaos.

"And then I'd do this so much better than you."

"Snotlout."

"What?"

"Would you just go away!"

"No."

Hiccup let out a cry of frustration and strode forward, his long strides keeping him ahead of Snotlout.

The watching teens smiled in amusement. Astrid grinned even more. "He's going to explode soon." At first, Hiccup's tendency to start talking in a different language irritated her unbelievably. However, as it began happening to her less and less, she managed to see the amusement in watching it happen to others.

Back with the two, their argument was in full swing, when suddenly Hiccup stopped for a second. Then, as quickly as he stopped, he'd turned around so he was facing Snotlout

"MenisitkÃ¶ pois!" He yelled at the top of his lungs.

Snotlout froze, any retorts dying on his lips. He let out a weak sounding "what?"

"Olet seurannut minua koko pÃ¤ivÃ¤n! Miksi? Vain Ã¶rsyttÃ¤Ã¶ksesi minua?"

Snotlout stumbled back slightly. The others couldn't help but laugh.

Hiccup's anger seemed to fade slightly, a small grin appearing.

"Koston aika"

Snotlout scowled "stop it."

"Ei missÃ¤Ã¤n nimessÃ¤"

Growling, Snotlout turned to walk off. Hiccup followed him.

"Minne olet menossa? Luulin ettÃ¤ halusit keskustella"

"Hiccup."

"MitÃ¤?"

"Go away!"

"Miksi minun pitÃ¤isi?"

Snotlout shouted in anger and ran off. Hiccup watched him.

"NÃ¤kemiin Snotlout!"

His only response was an angry yell. Hiccup grinned even more.

"NÃ¤hdÃ¤n harjoituksissa!"

The other teens were laughing at the unfortunate Snotlout.

"His face!" Ruffnut cried, bending over in laughter. Astrid turned to look from where she had been staring at the retreating Snotlout, to Hiccup.

"I wonder how long he's going to keep this up?" Fishlegs questioned. Astrid wondered too, she hoped he kept it up for a while, seeing Snotlout's face entertained her a lot.

"Hopefully for a while." She replied.

Hiccup, as if hearing their conversation, grinned even more and mumbled something.

"Teet tÃ¤stÃ¤ liian helppoa"

A week later, he still hadn't stopped.

All he had wanted was a peaceful afternoon flight with Toothless to get away from Berk and all his responsibilities for a while but apparently that was too much to ask. He glanced irritably at the group behind him. He needed company or someone to look out for him, they had said. He sighed, rubbing his hand against his forehead.

Astrid caught his glare and smiled, steering Stormfly so that the dragon was almost touching wings with Toothless.

"So this is fun." She said trying to break the tension.

A crash and a shout caught his attention before he could respond. He turned around to see that Ruffnut and Tuffnut had obviously tried something stupid again and were now plummeting towards the ground below them. He sighed as their Zippleback rescued them, rubbing his head again as the headache increased.

"Yeah, unbelievably fun."

Behind him the twins continued to argue loudly.

Hiccup clenched his fists together, trying not to get too annoyed.

More noise and shouts.

He flinched.

Crash! The twins and Snotlout fired, sending shots of fire zooming past his head.

His headache increased.

Astrid shot Snotlout and the twins a glare. "What'd you do that for?!"

"This is boring, we were just trying to make things interesting!" Snotlout shouted in response "Why can't we do something fun!?"

Hiccup cried in frustration and turned sharply to glare at Snotlout and the twins.

"Enten holder du munn eller gåÿ din veg" He growled.

Everyone silenced, realising what they had caused Hiccup to start doing. Snotlout and the twins stilled, silenced by the venom in Hiccup's voice.

"Tusen takk"

"Um, Hiccup?"

"Ja Fiskebein?"

Fishlegs paused slightly, before continuing as he noticed the lack of hostility in Hiccup's voice. "That looks like trader Johann's ship." He gestured down towards a small boat that looked pretty run down. The sails were ripped in lots of places and there was a lot of damaged to the wood.

Hiccup sighed again, 'great just what I need', he thought.

"SÅÿ mykje for fred og ro" He grumbled out loud, the other gave him strange looks. As they flew downwards towards the ship, Astrid called over to him. "I hate it when you do this."

Hiccup grinned "Nei set gjer du ikkje. Du lÃ,ynande elsker det."

Astrid glared at him.

As they landed, Johann greeted them.

"Oh thank goodness you're here!" he cried "I was afraid I'd be stuck out here forever."

Hiccup jumped off Toothless. "Kva skjedde?"

"I- I- What? Master Hiccup?"

"Vart du angreipen?"

Astrid strode past Hiccup "Ignore him" she said glaring at Hiccup who grinned in response "he's just being stubborn."

"Eg er ikkje sta, eg har det bare litt gå,y"

"Would you stop that!"

"Nei"

"Hiccup!"

"Kva? Eg gjer ikkje noko"

Johann could only stare at the arguing couple, completely lost as to what was going on. He looked towards the other four Vikings. Snotlout caught his gaze and shrugged, not wanting to explain what was happening and why his cousin was suddenly making no sense.

"Uansett, Johann, kva skjedde?" Hiccup broke away from his argument with Astrid.

"Hiccup he can't understand you, none of us can."

"Eg veit"

"uhg" Astrid cried in frustration "can't we just have a normal conversation?"

"Det er normal, du bare forstÃ¥r ikkje min del"

Astrid glared at him, narrowing her eyes "If you just made some stupid, sarcastic response-"

She was interrupted by Fishlegs.

"What happened to your ship, trader Johann?"

Johann snapped out of his stunned state. "Oh it was such a massive storm! My ship tried her best but couldn't do much against those giant waves. A big as a mountain they were!"

Hiccup opened his mouth to reply but Astrid interrupted him. "I guess we could give you a lift back and you can repair your boat back on Berk." Johann nodded and smiled "Oh thank you!"

Not long, and many tales from Johann, later the group arrived back in Berk. Gobber, having been the first to notice the group, greeted them as they landed.

"How'd the trip go?"

Hiccup, being the closest replied "oh it was a lot of fun."

Gobber gave him a look, seeing the rather smug look on Hiccup's face and noting the rather irritated group behind him. "Okay, well I better go help Johann then." He replied and quickly left, guessing what had happened on the journey. Astrid came up from behind Hiccup "are we finally going to have a normal conversation now?"

There was a pause. Hiccup grinned, took a step away from Astrid and the others and turned with a confused expression on his face.

"Eg veit ikkje kva du snakkar om" he replied innocently turning and running off at Astrid's murderous glare. "Vi sjÃ¥ast seinare!"

"Hiccup, get back here!"

"Kvifor vil eg gjera det!?"

"Dit is niet belangrijk, je hebt mij er niet voor nodig."

"Hiccup."

"Ik bedoel waarom denk je dat dit een goed idee was?"

"You'll give it a try?"

"Waarom zou ik dat willen?"

"So that's a yes?"

Astrid, Fishlegs, Snotlout, Ruffnut and Tuffnut paused in their conversation and turned to look at the group of Vikings that were making their way through the village following after a rather disgruntled looking Hiccup.

"Hoe kon dat ooit als een ja klinken!?"

Astrid blinked, what happened now? She knew that the older Vikings had been pushing Hiccup into taking on more responsibilities as he was the chief's son and that he wasn't very happy about it. However she had never seen Hiccup end up getting this annoyed over it.

"I wonder what's going on." Fishlegs said.

"Well whatever it is, he's clearly not happy."

"Yeah, and no one seems to get it." Ruffnut laughed.

The rest of the group nodded and watched as Stoick, oblivious to Hiccups displeasure, continued happily trying to talk to his son.

"What we've asked you to do is very important Hiccup." One Viking in the group spoke up.

Hiccup glared at him over his shoulder "Belankrijk, mijn voet" He replied sarcastically which, again, the adults missed.

"I knew you'd understand!"

"Yeah now stop walking away so we can talk properly."

Astrid couldn't help herself and found herself laughing at the group. The other teens eventually joined her, unable to stop themselves.

Wiping a tear from her eye, Astrid spotted Gobber at the back of the group. He didn't seem to be trying to convince Hiccup of anything and looked amused at it all himself.

"Gobber!"

Astrid called over. Gobber heard and walked over to her.

"What's up Astrid?"

"What's going on?" She questioned.

Gobber smiled. "They're trying to convince Hiccup to do a job for them. Keep saying it's important and will help him become chief and what not. Of course Hiccup's not too happy about it, not that they can tell."

Astrid laughed again "how can they not tell?"

"Well there is the slight language barrier."

Both burst out laughing.

"You know," Gobber said, trying to hold back his laughter "it's a new record this time. Didn't even last 5 minutes before he snapped." They laughed as they watched the events unfold in front of them.

"We could get this sorted a lot quicker if you were talking the same language Hiccup."

"Het zou niet gebeurd zijn als je naar mij had geluisterd in de eerste plaats."

"Maybe he's so excited that it's made him talk like this!"

"Klink ik enthousiast!?"

"Yeah! That's the spirit Hiccup."

Hiccup sighed and grumbled something under his breath.

"Okay maybe not excited." One Viking said in response to Hiccup's now obvious look of irritation.

"Okay son, what is wrong?"

"Zoek het zelf uit."

"Are you happy?"

"Sad?"

"Grumpy?"

"Depressed?"

"Hungry?"

"Irritated?"

"Wow je bent er zelf achter gekomen."

"You're irritated?" Stoick asked in surprise.

"Hoe ben je er achtergekomen?"

"Why?"

"Je zou het weten als je zou luisteren"

"Stop this Hiccup."

"'Maar je luisterd nooit, of wel? Kan niet eens merken dat ik dit niet eens wil doen!'"

"Hiccup."

"Ik zou gewoon willen gaan ontdekken."

Hiccup paused, turned around and glared at Stoick. Then sighed, turned back around and walked off, calling for Toothless.

"Ik ga een tijdje weg." He called to Stoick as Toothless came bounding round the corner.

"Hiccup where are you going!"

"Doei!"

The duo shot off into the air leaving a confused, and now slightly annoyed, Stoick and a pack of clueless Vikings behind him.

Behind them, Astrid, Fishlegs, Snotlout, Ruffnut, Tuffnut and Gobber collapsed into each other, laughing at all that had happened.

"Ich hasse dich jetzt, Alvin."

Said Viking glared down at the boy who stood, hands bound, in front of him. Thinking back, it probably hadn't been the best idea to kidnap the boy from his own house in the early hours of the morning- Alvin had discovered that the boy was in no way someone who enjoyed getting out of bed before he wanted- but, if Alvin was being brutally honest, he was getting rather desperate in his efforts to capture the boy, not that Alvin would admit that out loud of course. This had been the only time the boy's dragon had been out of the way and not with him. After capturing the boy, the usual sarcastic and witty resorts had been unleashed and Alvin, who had been expecting them, had managed to ignore them. That had been his first mistake. Dissatisfied that he wasn't getting to Alvin, Hiccup had decided the best thing to do was to be a bit more creative. And by creative, the boy meant talking in a completely different language.

Alvin sighed, rubbing his hands across his face, his temper wearing thin. Ignoring the sentence he couldn't for the life of him understand, Alvin continued to demand what he wanted from the boy.

"If you ever want to see your home again, boy, you will train these dragons for me!" He shouted, gesturing to the groups of dragons that were crowded in separate cages around them. Hiccup looked at him, then to the dragons and finally back to Alvin. He shook his head.

"Sie haben mich vorher gefragt und Ich hab schon nein gesagt. Ich verÄndere meine antwort nicht."

"You will talk properly to me!"

"Und auÄŸerdem funktionieren Ihre PlÄne nie. Ich werde schlieÄŸlich entkommen."

Alvin growled.

"Hoffentlich bald. Ich mÄŸchte wieder schlafen."

"You will listen to me!"

Hiccup glared at Alvin "Dar jemand beschlossen hat es wÄre eine so tolle Idee mich so frÄh auf zu wecken"

Alvin stepped towards the boy, raising his fist threateningly "you will do as I ask Hiccup." He growled.

"Nein."

"Or do you want me to lock you up again."

"Tolle arbeit mit der OriginalitÄt, Alvin."

This continued for a while, Alvin growing increasingly infuriated with each foreign sentence spoken from Hiccup's mouth.

"You willl--"

"Nein."

"Train these dra--"

"Ich hab schon gesagt, es wird nicht passieren."

"-gons! Arg!" Alvin cried in frustration, throwing his hands into the air and storming off. He was about to yell an order to his men when he was interrupted by a crash as the rest of Berks teens came hurtling through a tunnel.

"Tuffnut!" Astrid shouted "Would you just listen for once in your life!"

Tuffnut was, undoubtedly, about to make some kind of retort when he was stopped by the fact that Alvin was marching towards the group, dragging Hiccup along behind him.

"Alvin give Hiccu-" Astrid stopped mid sentences as Alvin threw Hiccup towards her.

"Take the annoying runt back!" he shouted, then turned and stormed off in a huff, grumbling under his breath. Astrid watched confusedly at the retreating Outcasts back before turning her attention back to the grinning Hiccup who was stood next to her. Her eyes narrowed.

"Hiccup what did you do?"

"Yeah how come he looked so angry?" Fishlegs questioned.

Hiccup held up his hand to silence them, grinned even more and turned to look at where Alvin had disappeared round the corner.

"TschÄ¼ss, Alvin! Mir hat's SpaÃ gemacht!"

There was a cry of anger that was quickly followed by "get the hell off my island!"

The group of teens, save for Hiccup, found themselves sympathising with Alvin. Dealing with Hiccup in foreign language mode was not something anyone wanted to have to deal with, especially when he was sleep deprived.

"Was that really necessary?"

Hiccup's grin never faded "no, but I enjoyed it."
